

The Concept of Ribā and Islamic Banking

Imran Ahsan Khan Nyazee

Advanced Legal Studies Institute
P.O.Box 3013, Islamabad

Contents

1	Introduction	1
2	Views on the Legality of Bank-Interest	9
2.1	Views of Modern Scholars on Ribā	11
2.1.1	The first approach	12
2.1.2	The second approach	17
2.1.3	Problems of interpretation in the two approaches	22
2.2	The Approach Adopted by the Fuqahā'	24
3	The Meaning of Ribā	27
3.1	Ribā is Excess	30
3.1.1	Excess through qadr (estimation)	30
3.1.2	Excess through nasī'ah or nasā'	31
3.1.3	Ribā al-faḍl and ribā al-nasī'ah —distinction	33
3.1.3.1	Method of estimation	33
3.1.3.2	Different beneficiaries	33
3.1.4	Modern scholars on the types of ribā	34
3.2	Basic Assumptions	40
3.2.1	Assumptions made by modern scholars	40
3.2.2	Assumptions in this book	41
3.3	The Three Transactions of Ribā	41
3.3.1	The first transaction	42
3.3.2	The second transaction	42
3.3.3	The third transaction	42
3.3.3.1	Loan and sale—distinction	45

3.4	The Third Transaction and the Credit-sale	46
3.5	Exploitation Through the Credit-sale	49
3.6	Interpretation by Modern Scholars	50
4	Fundamental Concepts	55
4.1	The Bayān by the Lawgiver	56
4.2	‘Azīmah and Rukhṣah	57
4.3	The use of General Principles in Islamic law	59
4.3.1	Analogical method versus the analytical method	59
4.3.2	Nature of general principles	60
4.4	The Concept of Bay‘ in Islamic Law	63
4.4.1	The basic types of bay‘	63
4.4.1.1	Dayn , ‘ayn , thaman , and debt	64
4.4.1.2	The basic types	67
4.4.1.3	The contract of ṣarf	69
4.5	The Meaning of Qarḍ , ‘Āriyah , and Rent	72
4.6	Partnership and Mudārabah	74
5	The Prohibition of Ribā in the Sunnah	77
5.1	The Method of the Fuqahā’	78
5.1.1	The method in general	79
5.1.2	The method for ribā	79
5.2	The Governing General Principle of Ribā	80
5.2.1	The general principle and modern scholars	85
5.3	The Sub-principles in the Sunnah	87
5.4	The Impact of the Governing Principle and its Sub-principles	94
6	Extending the Concept: Underlying Causes	99
6.1	Underlying Causes (‘Ilal)	102
6.1.1	The underlying cause according to the Ḥanafīs	102
6.1.2	The underlying cause according to the Shāfi‘īs	104

6.1.3	The underlying cause according to the Mālikīs	105
6.1.4	The underlying cause according to the Ḥanbalīs	105
6.1.5	The underlying cause according to the Zāhirīs	105
6.2	Suspicious Contracts	106
6.2.1	Bay' al-ʿīnah or the buy-back agreement	106
6.2.2	Bay' al-wafā'	108
6.2.3	Ḥaṭṭ wa ta'ajjal (discount on hastening payment)	110
6.2.4	Qarḍ giving rise to a benefit	111
6.2.5	Sale With a Loan or Two Transactions in One	113
7	Extending the Concept: Currencies	115
7.1	The Nature of Money and Ribā	118
7.2	The Contract of Ṣarf and Modern Currency	123
7.2.1	The sale of a debt for a debt and foreign currency	125
7.2.2	The sale of a debt for a debt and local currency	127
7.2.3	Payment for gold and silver in paper currency	128
7.3	The Ḥukm of Modern Currency	128
7.3.1	The ḥukm of money and indexation	136
8	Extending the Concept: Essential Foods	137
8.1	Food in the Traditions of Ribā	138
8.2	Food and its Sale Before Possession	142
8.3	Food and its Free Flow to Consumers	145
8.4	The Relationship of Food and Ribā	146
9	The Purpose of the Prohibition of Ribā	149
9.1	A Matter of Ritual Obedience	150

9.2	Prevention of Hoarding, Luxury, Extravagance, Barter	151
9.3	Prevention of Injustice (Zulm)	154
9.4	Discouraging Savings and Encouraging Consumption	154
9.5	A Just System for the Distribution of Wealth	157
10	The Constraints of Law and Islamic Banking	161
10.1	How Will the Banking System Work?	169
11	Appendix I	175
11.1	The Twelve Verses of the Qur'ān	175
11.1.1	The Texts in Context	178
11.2	Traditions on Ribā	184
11.2.1	Traditions about ribā in general	185
11.2.2	Traditions about ribā al-nasī'ah	191
11.3	Traditions Indirectly Related to the Issue	194
12	Appendix II	199
12.1	Al-Jaṣṣās on Ribā	201
12.1.1	Chapter on ribā	201
12.1.2	Ribā arises through faḍl and nasī'ah	204
12.1.3	Ribā includes the exchange of a debt with a debt	207
12.1.4	Prohibition of ribā implied in the verse	207
12.1.4.1	The kinds of prohibited ribā	208
12.1.4.2	The underlying causes	209
12.1.4.3	Sale, qarḍ , 'āriyah , and hibah	210
12.2	Al-Sarakhsī on Bay' —Excerpts	213
12.2.1	The Book of Sales	213
12.2.2	The underlying cause ('illah) and the jurists	221
12.2.3	Al-Shāfi'ī's arguments for the underlying cause ('illah)	224
12.2.4	Sarakhsī's response to al-Shāfi'ī's arguments	228

CONTENTS	The Concept of Ribā	5
	Bibliography	236