

TABLE OF CONTENTS

PREFACE	11
I INTRODUCTION TO LEGAL RESEARCH	13
Ch. 1 Introduction to Legal Research	15
1.1 Background	15
1.2 Defining Legal Research	17
1.3 The Legal Problem or the Task Facing Legal Research	18
Ch. 2 Understanding Authority	23
2.1 The Meaning of Authority	23
2.1.1 Seeking Help From the Doctrine of Judicial Notice	23
2.1.2 The Sources of Law (Primary and Secondary) and Hierarchies in the Legal System	25
2.2 Types and Weight of Authority for Research	27
Ch. 3 Reading Statutes	29
3.1 The Interpreter	29
3.2 The Objectives of Statutory Interpretation	31
3.3 Theories of Interpretation	33
3.3.1 Textualism	34
3.3.2 Intentionalism (and Purposivism)	37
3.3.3 Pragmatism	39
3.4 Rules of Statutory Interpretation in General	40
3.4.1 Rules Concerned with Relations Between Words .	41
3.4.2 Rules Concerned with Relations of the Words in a Statute to Outside Materials	41
3.5 Llewellyn's Attack on the Canons of Construction .	42
3.6 Guidelines for Reading and Understanding Statutes	48
3.6.1 Classification of Statutes	48
3.6.2 The Intrinsic Aids: The Components of a Statute .	50

3.6.2.1	Operative Components of the Act	50
3.6.2.2	Amendable Descriptive Components of the Act	51
3.6.2.3	Unamendable Descriptive Components of the Act	52
3.6.3	The Extrinsic or External Aids	55
3.6.3.1	The General Clauses Act, 1897	55
3.6.3.2	Legislative History	56
3.6.3.3	Matters That are Part of Legislative History	57
3.6.4	Reading the Statute: Rules and Canons of Construction	59
3.6.4.1	The First Rule: "Read the Statute, Read the Statute, Read the Statute!"—Felix Franfurter	60
3.6.4.2	The Second Rule: Where the Plain Meaning is Found, it is to be Applied	63
3.6.4.3	The Third Rule: Where the Meaning is not Plain, Try to Remove the Ambiguity or Obscurity	64
3.6.4.4	The Fourth Rule: Keep the Canons of Construction in Mind	65
3.6.5	The Legal Researcher and the Interpretation of Statutes	69
Ch. 4	Understanding Case Law and Precedents	71
4.1	Stare Decisis and Precedent: Horizontal and Vertical	73
4.2	Understanding the Framework: The Methodology of Judges in Pakistan	77
4.2.1	The Source for the Phrases "Decides a Question of Law" and "Enunciates a Principle"	78
4.2.2	The Source for the New Precedent and the New Principle	80
4.3	What is Binding in a Precedent?	81
4.3.1	The Disagreements of Writers on the Meaning of Principle	82
4.3.2	Dealing With Precedents: The Techniques	87
4.3.2.1	Statutory Precedents	88
4.3.2.2	Where the Text Does Not Provide the Answer	90
4.3.2.3	Techniques for Not Following Precedents	91

4.4	The Elements of a Reported Case and Analysis	95
4.4.1	Elements of Reported Cases in General	95
4.4.1.1	Citation	96
4.4.1.2	Caption	97
4.4.1.3	Syllabus	97
4.4.1.4	Headnotes	97
4.4.1.5	Advocates	98
4.4.1.6	Judge	98
4.4.1.7	Body of the Judgement	98
4.4.2	Analysing Cases: IRAC and Briefing	100
Ch. 5	Islamic Legal Materials and Legal Authority	103
5.1	Current State of Islamic Law and the Researcher . .	103
5.2	Authority in Islamic Law	104
5.2.1	The Primary Sources of Islamic Law	104
5.2.2	The Schools as the Authoritative Interpreters of the Legal Texts	106
5.2.3	Hierarchies in the System of Interpretation	109
5.3	The Researcher and the Derivation of the Law	111
5.3.1	The Two Parts of the System	111
5.3.2	The Researcher and the Search for Rules and Princi- ples	115
5.3.3	Solutions for Modern Problems: The Role of the Judge and the Researcher	118
Ch. 6	International Law and Foreign Law	121
6.1	Authority in International Law	121
6.2	Working With Treaties	123
6.3	EISIL Classification of International Law	127
6.3.1	General International Law (1)	127
6.3.2	States & Groups of States (2)	128
6.3.3	Individuals & Groups (3)	130
6.3.4	International Organizations (4)	133
6.3.5	International Dispute Settlement (5)	134
6.3.6	International Economic Law (6)	137
6.3.7	Communications & Transport (7)	140
6.3.8	Private International Law (8)	142
6.3.9	International Environmental Law (9)	144

6.3.10	International Air, Space & Water (10)	148
6.3.11	International Criminal Law (11)	151
6.3.12	International Human Rights (12)	154
6.3.13	International Humanitarian Law (13)	161
6.3.14	Use of Force (14)	162
6.4	Finding International Legal Materials	164
6.5	Researching Foreign Legal Materials	165
 II THESIS PROPOSAL AND FORMATTING REQUIREMENTS		167
Ch. 7	Steps for Initial Research and Formulating a Tentative Thesis	169
7.1	The Problems Faced by the Researcher in Pakistan	169
7.1.1	The Resources Available	169
7.1.2	Legal Research Requirements at Universities	170
7.2	Initial Steps and the Identification of Material Facts	172
7.3	Building a Core Theory and Making a Research Plan	177
Ch. 8	Writing the Proposal	181
8.1	Formulating the Thesis Statement	181
8.1.1	The Meaning of "Thesis Statement"	181
8.1.2	The Characteristics of a Good "Thesis Statement"	182
8.1.3	The "Thesis Statement" Must be Stated in a Single Sentence	183
8.1.4	The "Thesis Statement" Must be Stated in the First Few Paragraphs of the Thesis	185
8.2	Making an Outline	186
8.3	The Structure of the Proposal	188
Ch. 9	Format and Choosing the Page Size	195
9.1	Margins	195
9.2	Pagination	198
9.3	Mandatory and Optional Pages	199
9.4	Other Formatting Matters	202
9.4.1	Fonts and Font Size	202
9.4.2	Line Spacing and Quotations	202

9.4.3	Right and Left Justification	203
9.4.4	Headings and Sub-Headings	203
9.4.5	Quotations	204
9.4.6	Footnote Numbering and Format	204
9.4.7	Photocopies Included in the Thesis	204
9.4.8	Multivolume Theses	205
9.4.9	Italics and Transliteration	205
9.4.10	Printing	205
 III A BRIEF GUIDE TO CITATIONS		 207
Ch. 10 Plagiarism		209
10.1	The Definition of Plagiarism	209
10.2	Examples of Plagiarism	211
10.3	When in Doubt Don't	213
10.4	Rules for Avoiding Plagiarism	214
 Ch. 11 An Introduction to Citation Systems		 215
11.1	Purpose and Function of Citations	216
11.1.1	The Importance of Legal Citations	217
11.1.1.1	Reasons Related to Research in General	218
11.1.1.2	Reasons Specific to Legal Research	219
11.1.2	When to Cite?	223
11.2	Major Documentation Systems in Use Today	224
11.2.1	Citation Systems for Humanities and Social Sciences	224
11.2.2	Citation Systems for Law	227
11.2.3	Towards a Copyright-Neutral System for the Law	230
11.2.4	Need for a Citation Manual for Pakistan	232
11.2.5	Where the Proposed Manual Should Differ From the Bluebook and the ALWD Manual	237
 Ch. 12 Citation Structure and Placement		 239
12.1	The Elements of a Citation	239
12.2	Types of Citations and Where to Place Them	240
12.2.1	Theses, Law Review Articles and Practitioner's Documents	240
12.2.2	Citation Sentences	241

12.2.3	Citation Clauses, Embedded Citations and Textual References	243
12.3	Reference Notes and Note Numbers: General Rules	244
12.3.1	Types of Notes	244
12.3.2	General Rules for Footnotes	246
12.4	General Guidelines on Citation	248
12.4.1	The Authorities to be Cited	248
12.4.2	Frequency of Citation: ALWD Manual	249
12.4.3	String Citations and Number of Sources Cited	249
12.5	Introducing Authorities: Signals	250
12.5.1	Sources With Which a Signal is not Used	250
12.5.2	Using Signals and Types of Signals	252
12.5.2.1	Signals for Support	252
12.5.2.2	Signals for comparison	253
12.5.2.3	Signals for contradiction	253
12.5.2.4	Signals That Indicate Background	254
12.5.2.5	Signals That Indicate Examples	254
12.5.3	Typeface to use for Signals	255
12.5.4	Punctuation of Citation Sentences	255
12.6	Order in Which to Cite Authorities	255
12.7	Explanatory Parenthetical Information for Authorities	256
12.8	Abbreviations	257
Ch. 13	Rules Finalized and Citation Examples	259
13.1	The Constituent Parts of a Source or Authority	260
13.2	Footnote and Bibliography Formats: Distinction	261
13.3	Offline Sources	262
13.3.1	Book by a Single Author, First Edition	262
13.3.2	Book by a Single Author, Later Edition	263
13.3.3	Book by a Single Author, Reprinted	263
13.3.4	Book by Two Authors	263
13.3.5	Book by Three Authors	263
13.3.6	Book by More Than Three Authors	263
13.3.7	Book by Institutional Author or No Author	264
13.3.8	An Anthology with Editors in Place of Authors	264
13.3.9	Book with an Author and an Editor (with focus on author)	264

13.3.10	Book with an Author and an Editor (with focus on editor)	264
13.3.11	References to a Multi-Volume Work	264
13.3.12	Chapter in an Edited Collection	265
13.3.13	Article in a Journal	265
13.3.14	Article in a Newspaper	265
13.3.15	Book Review	266
13.3.16	Encyclopedia Entry	266
13.3.17	Interview by Writer of Thesis	266
13.3.18	Unpublished Material	266
13.3.19	Performances	266
13.3.20	Class Lecture and Paper Read at a Conference	267
13.3.21	Work of an Author Within the Work of Another Author	267
13.4	The Full and Short Forms of Citations	267
13.4.1	First Citation in Preceding Note	267
13.4.2	First Citation not in Preceding Note	268
13.5	Content Notes	268
13.6	Supra and Infra	268
13.7	Online Sources	269
13.7.1	Internet/World Wide Web	269
13.7.2	Journal Article, Online Database	269
13.8	Constitutions, Statutes, and Administrative Materials	269
13.9	Cases Including Reporters	270
13.10	Islamic Law Materials	270
13.11	International Materials	271
13.11.1	International Law	271
13.11.2	Multilateral Treaties, Declarations and Documents	273
13.11.3	European Union	273
13.11.4	World Trade Organization	273
13.11.5	Tribunals	274
13.12	Useful Abbreviations	275

IV LEGAL WRITING: THESIS AND ARTICLES 277

Ch. 14 Preliminary Issues 279

14.1	Types of Research Articles Again	280
------	--	-----

14.2	Revisiting the Thesis Statement	281
14.3	Spelling	281
14.4	Sources on Writing	282
Ch. 15	Advice of Experts on Writing in General	283
15.1	The Research Paper and its Structure	283
15.2	The Thesis	285
15.3	The Paragraph	287
	15.3.1 The Standard Paragraph	287
	15.3.2 Beginning Paragraphs	288
	15.3.3 Middle Paragraphs and Strategy	290
	15.3.4 End Paragraphs	292
15.4	The Sentence	292
15.5	Punctuation	293
	15.5.1 The Period or Full Stop	294
	15.5.2 Comma	294
	15.5.3 The Semicolon and Colon	296
Ch. 16	Advice of Experts on Writing for the Law	297
16.1	Some Rules for Good Legal Writing	297
	16.1.1 Pamela Samuelson's Six Paramount Rules	298
16.2	Use Plain English: Avoid Legalese	300
Ch. 17	Editing Your Work	305
17.1	Revision	306
17.2	Editing	306
17.3	Proofreading	307
17.4	Misunderstood Conventions	307
	Appendices	309
	A Sample Case Brief—Marbury v. Madison	311
	B Case for Writing a Brief	313
	C The Resources of the Hanafī School: Jurists, Issues and Texts	321
	C.1 The Hierarchy of Jurists Within a School	321
	C.2 The Hierarchy of Issues Within a School	324

CONTENTS	LEGAL RESEARCH IN PAKISTAN	9
C.3	The Hierarchy of Texts Within a School	325
C.4	The Integral Bond Between the Four Sunni Schools	332
D	Sources of Islamic Law (Ḥanafī)	339
D.1	Ḥanafī Sources: Uṣūl al-Fiqh	339
D.2	Ḥanafī Sources: Fiqh	344
Ch. E	Alphabetical Index of Federal Statutes of Pakistan	359
Ch. F	Latin Terms and Phrases	387
	Bibliography	425
	Index	429